

Remove EcoIV license dialog from VisualStudio

Due to an oversight from our part, the installer for ECO that ships with RAD Studio 2007 will also install a partly finished version of ECO for Visual Studio.

It is not usable, but will repeatedly ask for a license each time VS is started, and each time a project is opened. It will also ask for a license key when Microsoft Update applies a Visual Studio patch, but will then do so in the background.

The .reg file in this archive will remove the Visual Studio integration of ECO (but not the integration into RAD Studio 2007).

If you want to use ECO in Visual Studio, please visit the main download section and download an updated version that works with Visual Studio.
